CHRISTMAS GOODS.

You had better buy them early before the "Good Things" are gone.

RUSSELL & MURRELL, Columbia

Worth Over Two Billions.
Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 4.—The American Mining News contains the following article about the great United Verde Mine, the property of Senator W. H. Clark which, if correct, would indicate that it is probably the richest mine in the world.

"It may only lately come to light that the average value of ore taken from the United Verde is $10 per ton in all values—gold, silver and copper. This mine, so far as has been developed, including exploration and diamond drilling before the present workings, shows an immense ore chimney, 400 by 600 feet across, that has been explored by shafts, tunnels and drill holes to a depth of 1,400 feet.

"Just how it will be possible to work this mine down below the best limit is reached is hard to say, but a reasonable estimate would be 3,000 feet. An estimate by one of the best mining engineers in this country shows that the mine to the depth of 1,600 feet contains 335,000,000 cubic feet of ore, and estimates that the average cubic foot of the ore contains 23,000,000 tons in silver. "If we carry these a little further on the present four values of the United Verde we have the average value of the ore equaling $2,000,000.00. The present owner of the property has refused $500,000,000 for the mine."

To Your Tents, O, Israel!

Courier-Journal.

The election of Tuesday last should in many ways and in many ways impress themselves upon the minds of thinking Democrats.

In the long run, fusion politics, if nothing worse, is likely to be disappointing politics. It is tolerably certain that after every fusion somebody is going to be fooled. The Democratic fusion in Nebraska failed. But the Republican fusion in New York succeeded. Tammany goes down to a defeat which Richard Croker had already and twice over earned for it. Low & Company sit in the Rocker. But it will not be a year before the Company has gone to fingers and thumbs, its diverse elements quarreling among themselves over both the swag and the various schemes of reform, the community at large rather sick of its bargain. All Tammany has to do to unload Croker, get rid of the Devereux whom Croker has fastened upon it, and on its way rejoicing, purified, and once again a winner!

Croker lost the gubernatorial election for Augustus Van Wyck in '90 by ousting Joseph Daly from the Democratic list of Judges. Not only was Joseph Daly an eminent and incorruptible jurist, but a man universally respected and loved. To turn him down was an arbitrary act on Croker's part. But it was also a serious act. It first amazed, then alarmed the public, and in the end, it made a difference of twenty thousand votes to the ticket, defeating Van Wyck, himself an admirable nominee, and placing Theodore Roosevelt on his way to the White House.

During the perpetration of the bungling job, Croker talked incessantly; he talked like a giddy school girl with her first silk dress; his feet in his mouth and his hand in his pocket, where it seems to have been the last eight or ten years.

As the Courier-Journal has said before, in the character of a gentle tough Croker was excellent; in the character of a vulgar swag, he is execrable. That such a man should be longer tolerated by such an institution as Tammany Hall would seem to be inconceivable. Anywhere except in New York it would be impossible. But hereafter even New York will have none of him. Tammany will never again carry an election within him in the lead. Whether sitting in his semi-private club on Fifth Avenue—a veritable mock Duke both in comeliness and insolence—or whether posing as an English Squire at a Whig, he is equally insufferable to American institutions and Democratic ideals. Whom he deserved Mayor Van Wyck as "a little fellow who does as he is told," he gave the measure of his own spirit as a party leader, of his own status as a boss and patron, and, having lost to his, he made and his grip, he ought to go, to be sent to, or to stand on the order of his going, but not come.

The result in Kentucky, although anticipated, is most significant and gratifying. It is gratifying because it is old times come again. It is significant because it implies, primarily, a getting together of Democrats, but also, and by and large, it gives assurance that the young men of the party are coming to the fore, taking the places that rightfully belong to them and doing their duty with intelligence and courage. From now on, let the word be—"shock heads to the front!" It is upon the boys in the trenches that leaders must rely for inspiration and common sense as well as honest and hard work. Looking broadcast over Kentucky and seeing the evidence of what they did and where they were last Tuesday, we may, with something of the optimism of the English motto, surveying the campaign at Eden, point to them with pride and exclaim: "Behold, our young barons all at play!"

In the City of Louisville we have a party reunited and clean. Not in many years has it been so united and so clean. We have made one of our young barons Mayor as clear-cut, keen and gritty a guy around as I have known him up with a General Council composed of our very best men. We shall have honest Government. We have homogeneous Government. We have home rule. We send out greetings to the State and point to the seven thousand majority, bona fide and straight as a shuttle, the result of sending all quibblers to the rear, and of getting together on five issues and following five men, at once an example of what may be done and encouragement in the doing of it everywhere. Let Democrats stop hair-pulling and hair-splitting, and resting on a wheel behind, put their shoulders to the loom to shove the old cartwheel out of the ruts of visionary theorizing and embittered factionism and to get it going once more upon the well-born highways of Democracy, Untrifled and Undivided! For this we have labored, fretted, and all the time. It is to use the old cliché again, with the hope of one more Democratic President, before we cry, "now let their errand depart in peace!" And, truth to say, the prospect fills our cup of happiness to the brim.

Let Democrats make no mistake. Our ancient enemy still faces us. He is the same old zip con he always was. Mighty cunning and mighty conniving, but keen to bite, and vicious to buy and able to buy, whose power will turn the trick; who long to bulldoze and beat down where force is required; nor ready with the cry of fraud, ever present with some Federal process, or machine to override home rule, the people and the State; a time-server and an opportunist, using the flag for a party dish-clout, bending the Constitution to every party exigency; here to-day and gone tomorrow, a homeopathic Free Trader to the farmer, an all-patent Protectionist to the manufacturer; a Platt Reformer in New York, a Quay Regular in Pennsylvania; all things by turns and nothing long except his pocket and his check; the same old zip con, whether Federalist, Whig or Republican, from old John Adams and his alien and sedition laws, to Theodore Roosevelt and the Nigger!

Is there a Democrat in Kentucky who does not know where his duty lies? Good Government in our midst. Good Government at Frankfort. Those are the notes for the Democrats of Kentucky.

In spite of the drawbacks a Democratic Mayor, handicapped by a Republican Council, has been able here in Louisville to save something to the taxpayers and to pass over to his Democratic successor in office a chain which a Democrat can sit in, along with an honorable, unimpeachable record for integrity and economy. The promise of Weaver will be fulfilled by Grainger.

Turning to Frankfort we see a young Governor, sprung from a line of illustrious Kentuckians, without ostentation or parade doing his duty as a Chief Magistrate, a Democratic Chief Magistrate, as a Kentucky Chief Magistrate.

These things are, as they ought to be, full of inspiration. They give great draughts of confidence to the Democrats. They are big with auguries of the future. The years of famine are ending. The years of plenty are coming. It is a long lane that has no turning and today is a bronco-buster for sure, and so grid up your loins, and hold on to the cue-papers, for half it will not be written side juggle with us and the three-tall tiger am about to spring!"

Oldest and Youngest.

A Frankfort special says: "The youngest prisoner in the State penitentiary arrived yesterday to take up a life sentence, and the oldest in the institution, also serving a life sentence, was released today on parole because of the infirmities of age. The prisoner to come in was The Brown, a 15-year-old murderer from Laurel county, and the old man to depart was Joe Johnson, of Pike county, past 70 years of age. Johnson was paroled by the State Parole Board. He was sent up in 1902 to serve a life sentence for murder. He has been unable for some time past to do any work."

Most people will watch with considerable interest in the "new scheme" which Gen. Hamilton is to put on foot for the suppression of the Box War. So far the proclamation scheme has failed utterly, the shooting scheme works only on such Boers as the British can catch, the starving scheme only on the women and children and the extermination scheme works both ways.

The annual report of the Commission of Pensions shows that $405,673.31 was paid to 23,706 pensioners from the Louisville agency during the last fiscal year.

Favors the Road.
It is healthful, at times, to get within sound of a strong man's voice, and loathe good, old-fashioned ideas stated without apology.

Such a man is Mr. F. L. Selden, superintendent of the public schools of St. Louis. He is a fan of making the teacher the center of authority, and initiating the pupils into the first principles of obedience thereto. He holds the interference of parents with crank ideas as out of the question. The school room contains a large family. It is just as necessary that these children should be instructed in submission to rule as that they should move forward right in arithmetic and grammar. The most powerful agent of authority is, therefore, all the more needed in controlling some children because of the absence of it at home. The pamp red child grows up into the rebellious citizen, and it is only a question of time as to when the penalty will have to be administered. Well had on your might discipline be graceful punishment in maturity. "Freak punishment," says the superintendent, "should never be allowed in the schools. A good old-fashioned whipping such as obtained in the time of our fathers is the thing when severe punishment is needed. We still use it in the St. Louis schools. I believe in suspension to a certain extent, but there are times when it fails flat. Then the switch is mightier than the tongue. The exhibition of pupils from public schools for any cause, is a thing I heartily disapprove. A change of schools would be much better. It is the disobedient and unruly pupil who stands in need of the school, and educators have no right to shirk their debt to the public."

There is no doubt that that plain hard sense accomplishes more good than all the coddling of human passion that can come from dressers and impracticables.—Atlanta Constitution.

Fire at Evansville destroyed the plant of the Harrison & Rudd Clothing Manufacturing Company, entailing a loss of $100,000. Insurance, $80,000.

A man and a woman suspected of being connected with the robbery of the Great Northern train in Montana last July have been arrested in St. Louis.

Eight human bodies, which were believed sent to Missouri for dissection, were seized in Chicago. The bodies were purchased from a medical college.

Miss Maude Johnson, a pretty stenographer, committed suicide at Indianapolis by drowning in a cistern. She had long been ill.

Mrs. Myra Fries was given a life sentence by a jury at Shelbyville, Ind. for killing William Gray, who the woman claims assaulted her.

McQuinn On Durbin.

The language Governor Durbin, of Indiana, used in refusing the Governor of Kentucky's requisition for Tayloria libel upon every official in the Blue Grass State, from the Chief Magistrate to the jurors that tried the case growing out of the assassination of George Jackson, said one of Kentucky's most prominent lawyers, Mr. Lewis McQuinn, of Bowling Green, yesterday at the Statehouse. "His words are unwarranted in fact, and likewise, in law, for the Federal Constitution expressly declares that such requisitions shall be granted, and the courts have again held that the provision of the Federal Constitution is mandatory. The Governor of Indiana has no right to sit in judgment on the case; his duty is to see that the requisition papers are regular, and then turn the accused over to the officers designated to receive him. But, while the Constitution makes it mandatory on Governors to honor requisitions, there is no penalty attached. The Governor of every State takes an official oath to support the laws and the Constitution of the land. If he fails in his plain duty it occurs to me he comes near violating the same class with those citizens who have no regard for laws and for governments, and who are denominated Anarchists. For, if a Governor may ignore one clause of the Constitution, why not another?"—Washington Post.

Gen. Basil Duke is in Low-debar and will not be seen at Frankfort this winter.

Advices from Southern and Southwestern Utah indicate that great damage has been done by earthquakes.

The Democratic candidate for State Senator in the Hopkinsville district defeated John Feland by only four votes.

James J. Jeffries, the champion pugilist, punched the wind out of Rubin in the fifth round at San Francisco last Friday night.

P. H. Taylor defeated M. E. Tarter by 538 votes for county attorney of Casey. The majority being small Mr. Tarter will contest.

Frank James has become an actor and has gone on the stage. Parties about Lebanon and Cave City remember him as a stage stopper.

The Governor of Indiana has no right to hold Kentucky criminals from the legal authorities of this State simply because they can and him politically.

Union miners attacked the non-union men at Providence, Webster county, Friday morning. One man was killed, another reported dead and several wounded.

The proposed home for infirm ex-Confederates in the State is meeting with favor from all sources. The next Legislature will be asked for an appropriation for that purpose.

Mr. Babcock's bill for the reduction of the tariff will stand no show during the coming session of Congress. The trusts have built a wall around it. Mr. Babcock is a Republican, but can not get a sufficient number of his party friends to see as he does.

Joseph Keith took the rope round at Michigan City, Ind., last Friday morning and went to glory. He murdered Nora Kiefer, a girl he had betrayed. Before the drop he sang a psalm and told the minister he was going straight to heaven, and he went—b—ds.

The statement sent out by the Associated Press, last week, that Mr. John S. Rhea would not contest for his seat in Congress, was not true. Mr. Rhea holds the certificate as a member from the Third district, and does not have to make a contest. The fight must be started by his opponent.

It is a little tough on the Democrats of Adair to lose the county offices but two, but when they take into consideration the great victory in the State and what the future will bring to the party, there is really more sweet than bitter in the cup.

A man in New Jersey has brought suit against his wife for a divorce because she was a snake charmer. She brought reptiles in to the house and occasionally took them to bed with her. So far as we are concerned the divorce is granted.

Judge Guffy, now on the appellate bench, will be succeeded by a Democrat. The Democratic candidate for the nomination will likely be Judge Warner Settle, of Bowling Green, Hon. W. T. Ellis, of Owensboro, and Judge T. R. McBeth, of Leitchfield. The district west Democratic last election.

Governor Beckham has answered Durbin's mealy excuses for refusing to let a requisition for Taylor and Finley, in such scathing terms as the case merits. He shows the hypocrisy and falsehood of Durbin's excuses; that he has openly and willfully violated the Constitution of the country in giving protection to the fugitives; that he has sought to drag down the good name of this State, its courts and officials and make political capital with the radical wing of Indiana Republicans, with an eye looking forward to a seat in the U. S. Senate. Gov. Beckham quotes that part of the Constitution affecting such cases, he also quotes from the Revised Statutes of the United States on "fugitives from justice" showing that a Governor of a State has no discretionary powers in such cases, but his plain and legal duty is to cause the arrest of such fugitives when the legal demand has been made from the authorities from the State from whence they fled. His letter in its entirety will appear next week in The News. It is a fearful arraignment of a Governor of a State but he is backed by the Constitution, the law and a decision of the Supreme Court. He is also backed by every lover of justice, by every man who believes that a man who commits crime should meet justice.

The Somerset Journal, a first-class paper, and edited by a gentleman who knows his business, recalls the little piece of history, familiar to every reading man: "Two things happened in the life of Frederick Douglass which Booker Washington and negroist friends ought to take note of. One of these happenings, was his marriage to a white woman and the other the contempt of both races for him on account of that act. It was made clear that all his so-called efforts to elevate the negro race were in fact and truth efforts to secure social equality for himself. The negroes led Douglass fall down after he scorned the women of his own race. Booker Washington gets made of money to establish negro schools, but sends his own daughter to a northern white school. Washington, like Douglass, longs for social equality. The negroes will attend to his case in due time."

It is almost certain that Hon. Jas. B. McCreary will succeed Mr. Dubois as United States Senator from Kentucky. It is said that he will have more strength in the caucus than the combined forces of his opponents. We hope this statement is true, not that we have any particular objections to the other candidates, but that the race may be soon over. The next Legislature will have much work before it, and a hitch in the Senatorial fight would be a great hindrance to business. The State is to be redistributed in all branches of Government, and perhaps two new judicial districts created. This work must be done in six days, the Constitutional limit of the session, or there will be a demand for an extra session.

The man who committed a murder in Jeffersonville last week in order to beat an insurance company out of $4,000 has been identified as J. C. Rathburn, a deserter from the United States army. His wife resides at Little Rock, Ark., and the man Rathburn poisoned was named Goodman, a tramp. He drugged Goodman, then placed his own letters in the dead man's pocket and the body was shipped to Little Rock. Rathburn's wife identified him as the body of her husband, but the agent who wrote the $4,000 policy caught on and demanded an investigation which resulted as above stated Rathburn is now in jail at Jeffersonville with a murder charge against him.

Hon. Geo. Nell, of this place, who has been a quiet applicant for the office of Deputy Collector, Fifth District, Lebanon Division, has evidently been successful in his aspirations, and will go into office the first of next month. Mr. Nell has been an ardent Republican since the organization of the party, and is a gentleman perfectly honest in his dealings, with correct business habits. We predict that the affairs of his office will be conducted correctly and satisfactorily to the Government. We do not agree with Mr. Nell politically, but he is our personal friend and we are glad that he is to receive the appointment.

Rear Admiral Sohley has been vindicated but the investigation cost the old admiral every dollar he had saved during his long service in the navy. He had hoped to live easy during the remainder of his days, but in protecting his good name he is almost brought to poverty. He has nothing left but the salary he will draw as a retired officer.

As an afternoon daily the Louisville Times has no equal. As a paragraphist E. G. Logan discounts the whole fraternity, and when it comes to news, there is none afloat if it is not found in the Times.

Mr. J. A. Craft, of Louisville, is now the collector for the Fifth Kentucky district. It is said there will be a general shaking up in that department of the Government. Craft was a Democrat at one time and went over for pie.

GRADYVILLE.
H. A. Moss returned from Burkesville Saturday.

Jo Leftwich, Edmonston, was in our town Saturday.

Geo. H. Nell is in Louisville with a car load of cattle.

N. H. Moss is having fuses built to his new house.

H. C. Walker is having a new coat of paint put on his dwelling which adds greatly to the appearance.

Mrs. R. T. Caldwell who celebrated the third anniversary of her husband's last Monday will long be remembered by every one present.

Mr. D. J. Schelling and wife, of Columbia, visited H. C. Walker and family one day last week.

Mr. Jas. Coomer, of Nell, is thinking of locating here and opening up a blacksmith trade.

H. A. Walker bought of W. L. Grady, two yearling calves for $25.

Mr. Wilson, of Cave Valley, was in our midst last week and brought a lot of turkeys at 5c pound.

Miss Emma, a little daughter of L. M. Wilmore, has been very sick with throat trouble.

Miss Mary Todd, Kate Walker and Clara Wilmore, were guests of Mrs. H. A. Walker Saturday night.

Quite a crowd of people attended the funeral of Miss Nannie Doehner, at Union last Sunday.

Mr. Ed Baker has rented the farm of Mrs. Sarah Flowers near here. We cannot tell what will be next.

Lowie Bro's of Graham, were in our midst last week doing some roofing for J. A. Diddle and C. O. Moss. They certainly understood their profession.

Our school will close in four weeks. Our teachers have made a record that cannot be surpassed as teachers. We patrons regret that the end is so near.

Misses Lena Todd, Bessie Coffey, Clara Wilmore and Mary Todd, were highly entertained last Sunday at the home of Misses Kate and Bettie Smith.

Mr. Chas. Faulkner, of Toledo, was with us a few days ago and informed us that he was thinking of locating at this place. We would be glad to have him and his family with us.

Revs. G. P. Dillon and W. T. Salmon went to Beechville Saturday to visit relatives.

Farmers have been very busy killing hogs and gathering corn and to their surprise the corn crop is much larger yield than they anticipated.

Miss Pearl Hindman, who is teaching one of the best schools that was ever taught in the Third district, was away on a spelling Friday night which was well attended, taking incommensurate of the weather into consideration. This is her first school but we must say that her pupils can not be excelled in spelling.

Mr. W. T. Moore, our old friend and neighbor, was stepping around with us one day last week and looked as natural as he did twenty years ago when we would see him and the Yarberry Bros. swapping horses. Once again Uncle Billie you are more than welcome and we all retain a warm place in our hearts for you.

Mr. Will Lyon, the popular grocery man, of Campbellsville, was with us one day last week. He was accompanied by his wife who will visit relatives for a few days.
